The Fjærlandsfjord is one of the most popular excursions from Balholm, the scenery on its banks being typical of the rugged and impressive beauties of the Norwegian fjords. The entrance is guarded by the Soten, 4,610 feet; the Storhaug, 1,210 feet; and the Trodalseg, 3,645 feet. The great industry of the dwellers on its shores is fishing; this is chiefly done during the night.
